SPRING WHEAT IN NEED OF RAIN.

Protracted Drought, However, Has Been Broken in Some Sections.

CORN'S PROGRESS FAVORABLE.

Missouri Valley Crop Doing Especially Well-Harvesting of Winter Wheat Retarded in Portions of Missouri.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Washington, June 19.-The special weekly crop report issued by the Department of Agriculture to-day is as follows: The protracted drought over the northern portion of the spring wheat region continues, and rain is needed in portions of New England and Texas, and generally throughout the Rocky Mountain districts. Abundant rains have thoroughly relieved the drought conditions in the Middle Atlantic States, while excessively heavy precipitation has interrupted farm work and caused damage to crops in the South Atlantic and East Guif States, Lower Ohio and Central and Lower Mississippi valleys. The week was unseasonably cool in the Lower Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys and upper lake region, light frosts occurring over the eastern portion of the Upper Michigan

In the Corn States.

While the week has been rather cool in the great corn States of the central valleys, corn has made very favorable progress especially in the States of the Missouri Valley where the crop is growing rapidly and is well cultivated, except in portions of Missouri. The crop also needs cultivation in the Lower Ohio Valley. Western Tennesse Arkansas and generally throughout the East Gulf States. In the Middle and South Atlantic States corn has made decided advancement, but it is needing rain in portions of Texas and Louisiana.

Winter Wheat Harvest.

Heavy rains in the Central Mississippl Valley have retarded the harvesting of winter wheat, especially in portions of Mis-souri, Arkansas and Western Tennessee, and in the two last named States some damage in the two last named States some damage has been done to wheat in shock. Harvesting has continued under generally favorable conditions in Oklahoma and Kansas, and will begin this week in Nebraska.

Very unfavorable reports respecting spring wheat continue from the Northern portion of the spring wheat region where no rain or only very light showers fell during the week. In North Dakota much of the early sown is damaged beyond recovery and in Minnesota it is thin and heading short with small heads. In South Dakota a general improvement is expected as kota a general improvement is expected as a result of late rains, though to what ex-tent is uncertain as many fields are weedy and some appear irreparably damaged. In Washington and Oregon the crop has experienced improvement. Other Crops.

The general condition of oats continue promising except where shortened by drought in Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Lakotas and portions of Nebraska. Some damage has been caused to oats in shock by excessive rains in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States. Further improvement is reported in hay from some of the principal hay States, es-pecially in late meadows, a fair yield being promised in Indiana and Illinois. Haying s now in progress in the more norther

In Arkansas and eastward of the Miss! In Arkansas and eastward of the Mississip River, except in portions of the Carolinas, cotton has suffered seriously in consequence of excessive rains, lack of cuitivation and lice. In Texas scattered showers were exceptionally favorable for cleaning the crop which, however, is of irregular size over the southern portion of the State and notwithstanding the favorable weather for cultivation many fields are still foul. In Louisiana the weather conditions were very favorable for cultivation TEXAS CROPS.

Exceptionally Favorable Weather for Farm Work. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Galveston, Tex., June 19.-The Texas se tion, United States Weather Bureau, today issued its weekly weather and crop report for the week ending June 18. Speaking of crop conditions it reports another week of exceptionally favorable weather for farm work, although many correspondents report the ground is getting dry and hard and rain is badiy needed in some sections. Cotton has improved generally. Many fields are grassy and not yet chopped out, while in some sections planting is not yet completed. Cotton is very late and irregular. The acreage is not as large as it would have been under more favorable circumstances. Some early planting is forming squares, while in some places the plant is reported from some sections, while cotton has materially improved in the past fortnight. The belief prevails that the crop will not be an average. Wheat harvesting is about completed. Some spring outs are yet to port for the week ending June 18. Speaking The belief prevails that the crop will not be an average. Wheat harvesting is about completed. Some spring oats are yet to be cut. Corn in some localities is suffering for rain. If the dry weather continues the crop will be cut short. Rice planting is not quite completed. Early planting is promising. Sugar is not as good as it might be. Vegetables need rain badly. Other crops are doing well.

IN MISSOURI.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Columbia. Mo., June 19.—The United States Department of Agriculture climate and crop bulletin of the Missouri section for the week, ending June 19, 1909, issued to-day, says:

and crop builtin of the Missouri section for the week, ending June 19, 1900, issued to-day, says:

"The past week averaged slightly cooler than usual over the greater portion of the State with about the normal amount of sunshine, except in portions of the eastern sections, where the weather has continued cloudy with frequent showers. Showers have fallen in all sections of the State, but have been very local in character, some localities reporting a total rainfall of from two to four inches, while in others the fall was very light. The heaviest rains occurred in the central and southeast sections, and in a few counties low lands were flooded and much damage done to crope. In many of the Western counties a good rain is badly needed. In most of the southeastern counties corn fields have continued too wet for cultivation and are becoming very foul, but elsewhere the crop is generally in excellent condition, and the early fields are being laid by. Some fields in the southern counties are in tasseli.
"Cotton is making good growth where condition, and the early fleids are being laid by. Some fields in the southern counties are in tassell.

"Cotton is making good growth where clean, but as a rule it is becoming very weedy, frequent showers having prevented cultivation. Wheat harvest is in progress in the central and southern and is beginning in the northern counties. In a number of the southeastern counties. In a number of the southeastern counties. In the work has progressed very slowly owing to heavy rains. The fields are too soft for binders, much of the grain is down, and that which has been cut is in danger of sprouting in shock. In a number of the eastern and a few of the central and western counties the crop has been considerably injured by fly and some damage by high winds, drought and chinch bugs are also reported in a few counties, but over the greater part of the State an average or more than an average yield is expected. Oats have been seriously injured by drought in a number of the western counties, though in some they are improving since the recent rains. Elsewhere they generally promise a good average crop and in many counties the yield will be the largest for several years.

"Where good rains have fallen meadows are improving, but will not make an average crop except in portions of the northern sections. Considerable clover has been cut and some has been ruined by heavy rains. Millet, potatoes and gardens are generally making good progress except in some of the western counties, where they are suffering for rain. Flax is also doing well as a rule. Apples and peaches are still dropping to some extent, and in some localities much fruit has been blown off by high winds. Grapes are rotting badly in some sections."

ARKANSAS CROPS.

Little Rock, Ark., June 19.—The United States Department of Agriculture, climate and crop bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Arkansas section, for the week ending June 18, is as follows:

"Rain has been general throughout the State, and in some sections it was excessive. Excepting a few localities the wet weather has delayed the cultivation of corn and cotton, and as a result the fields are very grassy and weedy. Dry weather is badly needed, and in case this condition does not prevail soon there will be a great loss of both corn and cotton, mere especially in the lowlands. Some fields in the low-lands have already been abandoned. Wheat has been nearly all harvested, and is being damaged to some extent by wet weather. Oats are ripening and being harvested in many sections. Irish potatoes, as a rule, are doing well, but in some localities they are rotting in the ground. Fruit promises good yield generally, except apples and pears, which are failing off in most sections."

ILLINOIS CROPS.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Springfield, Ill., June 19.—The climate and crop bulletin of the illinois Section. United States Department of Agriculture, issued to-day for the week just ended, is as follows:

"There has been much rain over the greater portion of the State during the week, and in the southern parts of the central district it has been so heavy as to greatly interfere with farming operations. In many places vegetation has suffered from excessive rains. In the northern district there have generally been good rains, but not heavy enough to interfere with farm work. Many correspondents say rain is needed.

"The weather has generally been cool, but not heavy enough to interfere with farm work. Many correspondents say rain is needed.

"The weather has generally been cool, especially in the northern portion. This has been favorable for some crops and unfavorable for others. The condition of the hay crop seems generally to have improved during the week, although in many places it is still thin and short. The consensus of opinion is that hay will be a fair crop. This is especially true of the southern district, where the excessive rains, while damaging grain and corn, have greatly improved the meadows. Considerable progress has been made in the harvesting of clover, but rain in the central and southern districts has interfered with this work.

"Pastures are generally in fine condition. Wheat has continued to improve slightly. There has, however, been some damage in the southern district by wheat lodging on account of heavy rains. Harvesting has begun, but rainy weather has delayed it considerably. The week has not been favorable for corn. It has been too cold, especially in the northern district, and too wet in the southern and parts of the central district. Weeds are getting a good start. The condition of corn, however, is still generally good.

"The prospects for a large crop of oats condition of corn, newever, is succeeded.

"The prospects for a large crop of oats continue good. There is, however, a tendency to rankness of growth, and much damage has aiready been caused by lodging. Potatoes promise a good crop, but in some places the condition has deteriorated slightly. The small fruits all seem to be doing well, but apples are dropping badly and peaches to some extent. However, prospects continue to average well."

M'DONALD TOOK CHLOROFORM Bartender Believed to Have Committed Suicide.

James McDonald, a bartender, formerly employed at No. 12 North Seventh street, died at the City Hospital last night from the effects of a dose of chloroform taken earlier in the day with suicidal intent. McDonald was 40 years of age, a native of Canada and, so far as is known, unmarried. He secured employment two months ago from M. Weinstock, who runs a saloon under the hotel at No. 12 North Seventh street. A week ago he left, saying he was sick and intended to enter a hospital. He came back at the end of a couple of days considerably the worse for liquor. Monday his employer asked him if he did not intend to return to work. He said he would return to work the following morning. At 5 o'clock the next morning, when Mrs. Weinstock opened the saloon, she noticed McDonald crouched in a doorway near by asleep. She awakened him and he went upstairs to his room. The maid a few hours later found him unconscious. An ambulance was summoned and he was sent to the City Hospital.

No cause is known for the suicide except possible ill health or pain from a bullet which he received from a policeman at Seventh and Walnut about two years ago, and which remained in his body. He has no relatives in this city. he effects of a dose of chloroform taker

SHE DRANK CHLOROFORM.

Mrs. Culp of St. Louis Tried to End Her Unhappy Life.

Mrs. Marie Culp of St. Louis drank chloroform with suicidal intent on the Wabash Decatur Accommodation while she was en route to Edwardsville, Ill., yesterday afternoon. Her husband was at the depot at Edwardsville and carried her to Doctor Wharff's office, where she was revived and pronounced out of danger.

A letter, which she had written before she took the chloroform, was found on the car floor. In it she said that she was married at the ago of 14, that it had wrecked her life, and that she realized that it was a mistake, and, though her husband had made a home in Edwardsville and had sent for her, she could not again take up the dutes of a wife. She commended their two little children, both girls, to his care, and her last request was that they be not allowed to wed at the early age their mother was married.

Late in the evening the woman recovered sufficiently to be remayed to her home, but her farewell to the doctor was that she would try again, and see to it that he was too late to save her. Mrs. Culp's maden name was Marie Luncsford. she was en route to Edwardsville, Ill., yes-
